

FIG. 52.—Fracture of upper ends of ulna and radius by rifle missile. There is considerable displacement of the fractured shaft of the radius. The lodged missile shows the common form of deformation peculiar to the "spitz" or pointed bullet. This bullet frequently tends to lodge when it strikes cancellous and compact bone tissue.