

CHART VII.—Changes in total solids of blood after phosgene gassing, showing characteristic differences in the dogs that died acutely and those that survived the acute period