

FIG. 111.—Droplet lesion of mustard gas on human skin seven days after application. Low-power view showing area of necrosis of epidermis and upper portion of corium, with intense hyperemia of the surrounding vessels. Moderate edema and very little small-celled infiltration