

FIG. 226.—Longitudinal section of an atypical neuroma from the wrist of a dog, 27 days after section; pyridine-silver preparation. The general structure of the neuroma is clearly evident. The atypical form was due to pressure consequent to scar tissue formation.