

FIG. 181.—Section from the superior half of the corneal vertex seven weeks after application of standard droplet of dichlorethylsulphide, showing the greater degree of cicatrization usually found in this portion